

David and Jonathan were true friends to one another. They honored their covenant of friendship by protecting and supporting each other and their families in times of need.

I can be a true friend when I am